MRS. BELMONT RIVAL CINDERELLA LOSES TO PROVISION TRUST

Society Leader Sells Butter, Eggs, and Even Cuts of Veal at Reduced Prices.

New York, June 21.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has become a rival of the Butter and Eggs Trust, and the Beef Trust. It became known to-day that for some days past Mrs. Belmont had been supplying her rich society friends with fresh country butter and eggs and roasts of beef from her sufrage stores, at 12 and 15 East Forty-first Street.

That the sufrage leader had actually entered the dairy business and was even selling fine cuts of lamb and beef at from 2 to 3 cents a pound cheaper than her patrons could buy from the retailers was told to-day by Mrs. Belmont herself.

A line of smart equipages, with coachmen and footmen wearing the smart livery of many families of New York's rich, stood before Mrs. Belmont's sufrage headquarters this morning.

"I have bought up 50,000 pounds of fine creamery June butter at just 10 cents for next fall trade," said Mrs. Belmont. "This butter is now in storage."

Mrs. Belmont told of her new venture while she was engaged in giving orders for the remodeling and enlarging of her sufrage luncheon and storage plant for the dairy and market business.

"I am so greatly encouraged at the success of my restaurant—we have dined more than 50,000 persons here since its opening last December—that I decided out of the burden of my experience here to enter the dairy business."

"We shall buy direct from the wholesaler. We will be able to sell a few cents cheaper than the average retailer. My idea is to stimulate a greater interest in women to enter business. We buy our butter and eggs now from a Jersey dairy run by women."

Two and three times a week the past winter Mrs. Belmont's rich society friends have been giving luncheon parties at her sufrage restaurant, helping themselves the same as the working girls.

"The restaurant has been a big success," said Mrs. Belmont. "While it is closed this summer, shall make improvements, costing more than $10,000. At least for luncheon for a large number of women, I think I have solved the problem of the high cost of living."

CINDERELLA LOSES SLIPPER IN SUBWAY

But if Fairy Prince Is Caught in This Case He Will Be Arrested.

New York, June 21.—Here is an up-to-date Cinderella story, and it's a new twist. Miss Rebekah P. Lhore, eighteen years old, is the heroine, and the prince, if he may be so designated, though the police would class him as a highwayman, is described as tall, handsome, and dark.

And the story differs in other respects, too, from the fairy story. Our little Cinderella is not "the drudge of the house." She is a stenographer in the office of L. P. Carter, 30 Broad Street. Nor is the slipper in this story a glass one. True, it was a wee bit of a slipper that would fit only one foot in a hundred, but it was just a yellow Oxford, and it and its mate cost $5.

Miss Lhore came down to business in a subway express. Holding to a strap was a tall young man with raven black hair, and as our Cinderella says, "such lovely brown eyes."

Leaving the train at the Wall Street station, Miss Lhore was ascending the stairway when the slipper was snatched from her right foot. She wheeled in time to see a man feeling through the passage under Broadway. He looked like the young man she had seen in the train.

Miss Lhore finally got another pair of slippers, but when the Cinderella parallel was mentioned, Miss Lhore grew scornful.

"He's no prince," she said, "and I wouldn't speak to him even if he replaced my slipper with a solid gold one. I'd have him arrested. That's what I'd do."

So the slipper-snatcher would better not invite the modern Cinderella to come to a grand ball and try to put her foot in that slipper. If she went, she would have a policeman's heels, ready to seize the counterfeit prince.

BUILDING IS DELAYED.

Bridge Across Rock Creek to Be Started in Fall.

According to District Engineer of Bridges T. C. J. Bally, the construction of the new $250,000 bridge across Rock Creek at Q Street will not begin until October.

The verdict of the condemnation jury may be brought in within the next few weeks, but notice must be given to the Washington Railway and Electric Company to remove the repair shops, which are in the line of Q Street in Georgetown, and other matters attended to before the work can begin.

The plans for the structure have been approved by the Fine Arts Commission, and the contract for the four buildings to grace the approaches has been given to A. Phinister Proctor, of New York, who designed the approaches to the Sixteenth Street Bridge.

Swedish Society to Give Outing. The Swedish society, Drott Lodge, No. 185, Order of Yasa, will leave at 10 o'clock this morning on the steamer Charles Macalester for a picnic at the Allen Farm, near Marshall Hall. All the frolic that accompanies the celebration of "Midsummer Night" in the old country will be in evidence. A large number of Scandinavians are expected to join the party, and a most enjoyable time is promised those participating.

The largest railway passenger station in Europe is at Leipzig.

COMMITTEE VOTES AGAINST JUDGE

Impeachment Proceedings to Be Begun in Archbald Case.

The House Judiciary Committee yesterday formally agreed by unanimous vote to the articles of impeachment against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the United States Commerce Court, charging him with official misconduct and gross impropriety on more than ten counts, as forecasted in The Herald a week ago.

Impeachment proceedings will be begun in the Senate probably before July 15. After agreeing to the report and statement of specifications and allegations, practically as prepared by a subcommittee, the full body decided to subpoena the report until the House has settled down to business after the Democratic convention. Chairman Clayton said yesterday that such a course would hasten the action of the House, as he will then be able to bring it up on the floor of the full House as a question of highest privilege and obtain immediate action.

That the House will adopt the report of the full committee and order the appointment of managers to present the case to the Senate is a foregone conclusion. It was reported yesterday that the latter would be named. Among these Representatives Webb, Democrat, North Carolina; Floyd Demerut, Arkansas; Norris, Republican, Nebraska; and Sterling, Republican, Illinois, are practically certain to be named. These four men constituted the subcommittee which drew up the report and statement of facts, which was adopted by the full committee without alterations.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL PASSED.

$110,000,000 Appropriation Bill Completed in House.

The sundry civil appropriations bill, carrying a total of about $110,000,000, was passed by the House yesterday. An amendment inserted in the Committee of the Whole by Representative Beall, of Texas, chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, prohibiting United States district attorneys from accepting employment as special counsel of the Department of Justice, at increased compensation, was modified at the request of Minority Leader Mann to apply only to future appointments.

Mr. Mann read a letter from Attorney General Wickenshaw, protesting against the amendment, on the ground that it will hamper the trust prosecutions now

WILL SHE REMAIN AS MISTRESS OF WHITE HOUSE

The training of John W. Wamsamaker as President General in the Harrison administration, 1888-90, is an admirable preparation for the performance of Presidential duties. His distressing experiences during the panic of 1897 left him in the condition of a person with a sore finger which he could not bear to have anybody touch. Such a fellow-sufferer would be in sympathy with business people everywhere throughout the nation, and watchful to apply remedies in time to avert financial disturbances.

Wamsamaker comes from the Quaker City of Philadelphia, in Pennsylvania, the Keystone State, which the delegates should make the keystone of the Republican National Convention. Pennsylvania has furnished both one President, and was a Democrat—James Buchanan. At present Pennsylvania has a most worthy son to nominate at the National Republican Convention. Can he not have the solid vote of his own delegation? If so would not the delegates from the Empire State of New York vote for a nominee who is also one of her greatest merchants? Wamsamaker has as large stores in Manhattan as in Philadelphia. Then would not the New Jersey and Connecticut delegates join in support of a business leader who has a household word in all those parts? Whoever carries these four States carries the Union.

The nomination of John Wamsamaker as President would unite the Republican party and inaugurate a campaign of clean-cut issues. Republican and Democratic policies would be clearly defined, and the American people could intelligently determine in November to whom they would intrust the administration of the government. JAMES C. HALLOCK.

TO SELECT ADJUTANT GENERAL.

President Taft Will Appoint Gen. Hall's Successor Shortly.

Selection by the President of an officer to be adjutant general of the army, succeeding Brig. Gen. William P. Hall, retired, is expected to be announced in a few days.

It is now known that there are but three men left in the running, Col. H. O. S. Helstead, George Andrews, and W. L. Simpson, Col. Henry P. McCain, next to last on the lineal list, having been eliminated because of his juniority. The probabilities are considered in favor of Col. Andrews and Simpson, with the odds slightly on Col. Simpson because he has but two years to serve before retirement on account of age.

To Go to Panama.

Raul Brim, son of Juan Brim, first secretary of the Panama Legation, will soon leave Washington for Panama City, where he will aid in the formation of a Department of Agriculture for the Panama government. Mr. Brim is not yet twenty years of age. He has just been graduated from the Maryland Agricultural College.

Queensland is estimated to have 60,000 acres of forests as yet unexplored and unreserved.
